Considering the Future of Futaba Action Group

The group was founded in winter 2015, as an impetus for those directly involved in the revitalization of the 8 towns and villages of Futaba District to gather and exchange ideas. Responding to needs following the unprecedented Great East Japan Earthquake and TEPCO Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Station Nuclear Disaster, revitalization measures are discussed and implemented by this group. This group came up with the idea behind the creation of this map.

Fukushima Future Center for Regional Revitalization (FURE)

Fukushima University established Fukushima Future Center for Regional Revitalization (FURE) in April 2011 to respond to challenges caused by the East Japan Great Earthquake and Fukushima Daiichi nuclear disaster, and to support the revitalization of the prefecture. The university uses its expertise to support regional operations, beginning with supporting the Considering the Future of Futaba Action Group, and subsequently facilitating cooperation between residents, between government officials and residents, and others.
